The National Commission for Asylum releases the sixth issue of "In Itinere" Magazine

Issue 6 of the quarterly magazine “ In Itinere – Paths to International Protection” edited by the National Commission for the Right to Asylum, is now online.

This issue is dedicated to rulings on international protection issued in the quarter October-December 2025 and is divided, as usual, into three parts: the first dedicated to the case law of the European Courts and other international courts, the second to rulings of the Court of Cassation, and the third to a selection of decisions on the merits.

The journal analyzes the balance between migration management needs , international protection obligations , and procedural guarantees in individual proceedings. Topics covered include individual risk assessment, the protection of vulnerable persons, exclusion clauses, the right to remain during proceedings, and the conditions for detention.

This issue is accompanied by the third " Quaderni di In Itinere ", which reconstructs the legislative and jurisprudential evolution of complementary protection in Italy, from the origins of humanitarian protection to the most recent developments in jurisprudence.
