Government extends restrictions to apply for asylum at the Polish-Belarusian border until September 2026

On 20 July 2026, the government extended the restriction on the right to submit applications for international protection for persons crossing the Polish-Belarusian border, a measure which has been in place since 27 March 2025. The extension was authorised by a resolution of the Sejm on 3 July 2026 (Journal of Laws, item 674) and subsequently approved by a regulation of the Council of Ministers on 13 July 2026 (Journal of Laws, item 945). The restriction remains in force for an additional 60 days, until 18 September 2026.

The Asylum Act provides exceptions to the restriction. Unaccompanied minors, pregnant women, persons requiring special treatment due to age, health or other needs, individuals at real risk of serious harm in Belarus, and Belarusian nationals may still apply for international protection at the border.

According to the Ministry of the Interior, between 27 March 2025-19 July 2026, 160 applications for international protection were accepted, while 448 applications were rejected.
