The first two refugees, from Sudan and South Sudan, have arrived in Trieste under the "Work Corridors for Refugees" program, an initiative led by UNHCR, the Italian Ministries of Foreign Affairs, Labor, and Interior, Talent Beyond Boundaries, and other partners.

After completing specialised training in Egypt, they will start working in the shipbuilding sector in Monfalcone.

Italy is among the first countries to establish a secure pathway for refugee employment, allowing companies to hire trained refugees. Over 100 refugees are expected to arrive by the end of 2025, supported by collaborations with international and local organizations.
