The Irish Minister for Justice extends temporary protection until 4 March 2027

The Minister for Justice, Home Affairs and Migration has announced an extension of immigration permissions for all individuals who are beneficiaries of temporary protection in Ireland until 4 March 2027.

The extension applies to beneficiaries of temporary protection residing in the State whose Temporary Protection Certificates (yellow paper) are currently valid until 4 March 2026. No application is required to renew these certificates.

Expired Temporary Protection Certificates will continue to be accepted as proof of entitlement to temporary protection and access to relevant State services until 4 March 2027.
