Edited by the National Commission for the Right to Asylum, Issue No 7 of the quarterly magazine "In Itinere – Paths to International Protection" was published. The issue is dedicated to decisions on international protection issued between January-March 2026 and is divided, as usual, into three parts: the first dedicated to the case law of the European Courts and other international courts, the second to decisions of the Court of Cassation, and the third to a selection of decisions on the merits.

The journal analyses migration management needs, international protection obligations and procedural safeguards in individual proceedings. Topics covered include individual risk assessment, the protection of vulnerable persons, exclusion clauses, the right to remain during proceedings and the conditions for detention.
