Special needs in reception

Identification of special needs

The law does not foresee any mechanism requiring authorities to systematically identify vulnerable persons. Applicants are obliged to state any known health issues during the preparatory phase, which might be of relevance for the procedure (Asylum Act, Article 26a). Official instructions which are available concern vulnerability in the framework of the personal interview and assessment of the asylum application.

All cases are individually assessed. In the Swiss legislation there is only the obligation of identification of victims of human trafficking.

Reception facilities and other housing arrangements

Housing arrangement

Accommodation in a reception centres is provided by taking into account differences and needs for man and women, families, pregnant women, minors. Mixed rooms are not permitted.

The Swiss Accommodation Operating Plan (PLEX) offers provisions on how to approach asylum applicants and identify signs of sexual violence or sexual exploitation in order to offer adequate support. personnel in the Federal reception centres have to provide information and support to all asylum applicants accommodated.

Assistance for traumatised asylum seekers offered by NGOs and CSOs, specially for victims of torture and war.

In 2020, SEM implemented a project to recruit social educators at the asylum centres to provide daily assistance to UAMs. Additionally, a Concept for Vulnerable People was developed, the quality standards were adapted and the Operational Manual was reviewed for the first time. (source: Reception Network NCP meeting, June 2020).

SEM designed internet-based mental-health help and support services for asylum seekers in March 2020.

In all federal and cantonal centres there are caretakers to support the persons in daily affairs and inform about daily life necessities. (social assistance applies for all applicants, not only vulnerable).

Legal assistance

Applicants receive multilingual information brochures, watch a video about the procedure and its steps and are entitled to free legal assistance only after filing the application, at the start of the preparatory phase, when arriving to the assigned federal asylum centre with processing facilities.

Guarantees for unaccompanied minors

In the framework of the Swiss Civil Code, Article 19(2), filing an asylum application is strictly personal and access to the asylum procedure is guaranteed for all minors, regardless of their age and intellectual maturity (capacité de discernement).

Making, registering and lodging an asylum application

Each minor reaching a sufficient level of intellectual maturity - allowing them to understand the reasons, steps and consequences of the asylum procedure - may file an application either in person or through a representative. Usually a minor is considered to have reached this level of maturity by the age of 14. Minors below this age and maturity can file their application in a valid manner only through a representative.
