Launch of call for expression of interest to specialise 50 accommodation places for victims of trafficking or violence

The Ministry of the Interior publishes a call for expression of interest for the specialisation of 50 existing places for the reception of female asylum seekers and refugees who are victims of violence and/or trafficking in human beings within the national reception system. These places will also be able to accommodate the children of women beneficiaries of the scheme.

The specialised places will be located in the Grand-Est and Normandy region, where the needs for specific support are particularly significant. They will be part of accommodation facilities (CADA or CPH, excluding PRAHDA and CAES).

350 places in the DNA park (CADA and CPH) are currently funded under this call.

The State wishes to increase this system to a total of 400 places. The 50 places already open, which will be the subject of a specialization, will benefit from an additional allocation of 13 € per day and per place.

The current call is open until 15 October 2026 and only concerns the specialisation of already existing places and not the creation of new accommodation places.

More information about the call for expression of interest is available on the website of the Ministry of the Interior.
